

Pink eye (Moraxella bovis)

Over the last month we have received several calls about cases of pink eye and the best sample to confirm infection.

To confirm infection send us a fresh conjunctival swab placed in bacterial transport media. There are numerous contaminating bacteria colonising the damaged tissue and as such Moraxella is susceptible to overgrowth by these organisms. To maximise the chance of a positive culture submit culture swabs from several affected animals (3-5), keep the samples cool (ship on ice on warm days) and submit the sample as soon as possible after collection.
